"Silk symbolism in India is rooted in tradition, in the roots and the surroundings. The saree is considered as a fabric woven by the gods. The saree is the 'sacred' garment, as the traditional fabric with its magic and soul making a girl a woman."

Craft Allusion

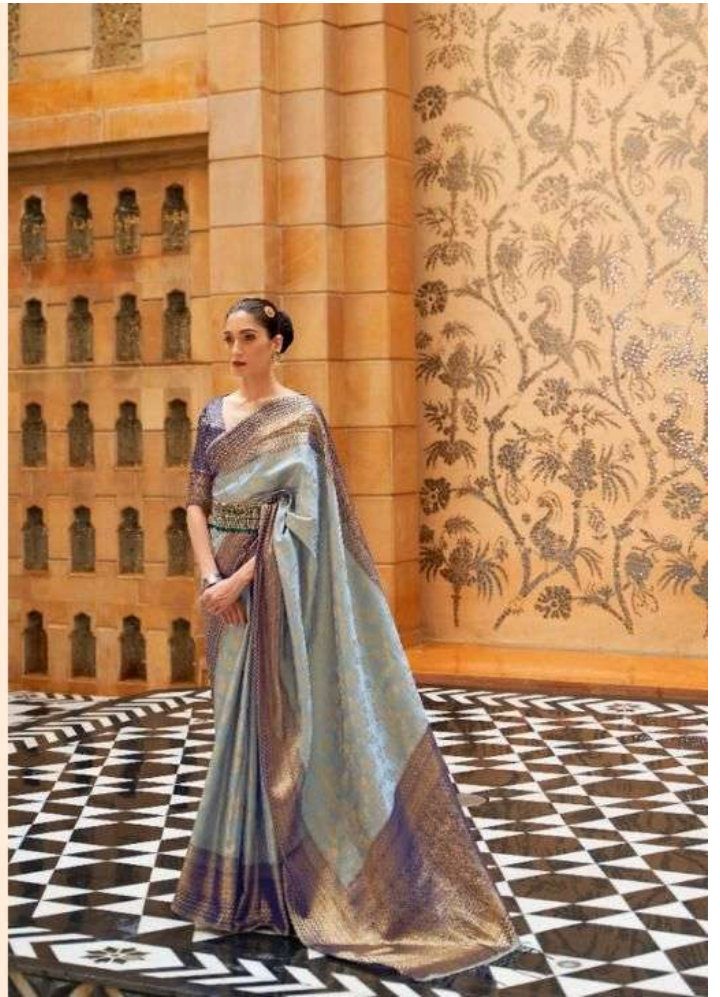

Truly, everything in India is influenced by nature, its rituals and the surroundings. The nature is captured in a fabric woven by the people. The essence, the cultural heritage, is incorporated into the fabric, with the help of hand weaving and gold patterns.
